

Artwork 2012

January 2012- First month participating in the Creative Every Day Challenge...theme was 'New'...inspired to create 'new shoes'...included angels with the shoes and then later moved towards figurative work as I found a style/rhythm.

February 2012: CED focus was on creating a 4x4 heart each day, the hearts got progressively more embellished as the month went on. I did a terrible job of documenting these, many were given away...as were many of the additional figurative pieces that I created...so not going to worry with descriptions.

May 2012: CED focus was on 'one' which I interpreted as one color- monochromatic. I worked exclusively in blue, using only two blue Prismacolor pencils and two blue Prismacolor markers, with the exception of one piece with a red heart, which I gave to my trainer, Angela when she lost a close friend.

June 2012: CED focus was on 'opposites' which kind of followed...I created pieces inspired by pin-up art, specifically Bettie Page. I felt that Bettie had a girl-next-door appeal that clashed with her overt sexiness.
